

Download Criminal Justice Group Training

Corrections Specialist Professional Program. One of the most important facets of criminal justice is the Corrections System that houses, monitors and reintegrates individuals – adults and juveniles – under supervision of the law. The criminal laws and penal system that determine corrections requirements, the various stresses on...The site also features links to national criminal justice resources and information about the Criminal Justice Research Consortium, which connects these professionals with academics across the state to research and develop evidence-based approaches to address specific public safety issues in their communities. During the criminal justice training, each new facilitator receives a copy of the following: How to Escape Your Prison (the MRT workbook) MRT Facilitator's Handbook (contains information on the group process, specific objective criteria and guidelines for all exercises and tasks in MRT, and specific "how to" instructions) Training. The New York State Division of Criminal Justice Services offers a wide variety of training services to criminal justice agencies and individuals across New York State.