So if a man puts a knife into someone's back in the name of Christianity, something obviously isn't right. Let's not forget that the Bible tells us all murderers, including those who have had murderous thoughts in their hearts, will not make it to Heaven. Following the teachings of the Bible will not lead you to start a war. Some skeptics say Christianity has caused more wars than anything else in history. They paint a picture of Christians as the most murderous group of people, ...Does Christianity Cause War? by James Turner Johnson December 1998 At first glance, no marriage in the history of ideas would seem more unlikely to succeed as an artificial union of opposites ("arranged," as it were, by Yenta the village matchmaker) than that between Jewish ethics and natural law. So, does religion cause war? Sadly, it does. But does Jesus Christ, and do those who submit themselves wholeheartedly to Him and His teaching? No. He was the Prince of Peace and he remains the only hope for real peace – even, perhaps especially, in the Middle East.
