Pixee Medical develops surgical navigation solutions using an innovative tracking tool. Thanks to our proprietary algorithms, a simple camera installed in a smartphone or smart glasses is able to locate objects in a 3D space with millimetric precision.

Hemangiomas. Hemangiomas are the most common benign growth in infancy, occurring in 10% of full term babies and up to 25% of premature babies. They represent excessive blood vessel growth, most obviously in the dermis layer of the skin, but they can occur in the fatty layer of the skin, and also deeper within the body such as in the liver.

Empire Medical Training is the recognized training organization for NovaThreads™ and authorized trainer for the FDA PDO barbed thread suture. In contrast to the Thread-Lift-Training-I this hands on training will be limited class sizes as required by the manufacturer to purchase and use this device as it demands greater understanding and is technique dependent.
